Word Duel Between Doctor and Lawyer In Atcherley Case

This morning's session of the Atcherley trial was largely a duel of words between Dr. Atcherley and County Attorney Cathcart. Atcherley's attorney, Magoon, asked him a few questions and then turned the witness over for cross-examination.

Cathcart tried to establish a connection between the treatment used by Atcherley on patients at Kailih receiving station and that commonly known as the Wallach cure. Atcherley was very cautious in his answers, however, and proved an extremely unsatisfactory witness, from the standpoint of a cross-examiner.

Atcherley evidently felt that an effort was being made to harass him, and whenever the prosecuting attorney left the smallest hint of an opening, the defendant fired back answers which proved extremely disconcerting.

Cathcart spent considerable time trying to wring from the witness the secrets of his leprosy treatment. Up to a certain point Atcherley freely went, then he declined to go further, however, insisting that his investigations had not reached a stage where the discovery was ready to give to the world.

He took exception to Cathcart's frequent reference to the "Atcherley cure" and the "Wallach cure," saying that he had never referred to the treatment as a "cure."

Atcherley said that he considered leprosy due to dietetic faults, but declined to say that simply a fish diet was sufficient to cause leprosy. He likewise objected to Cathcart's characterization of his remedy as a "nerve food," saying that a food could only be something which went, unchanged, to sustain some part of the body.

Atcherley reiterated his belief that leprosy is caused by an improper diet which results in the deterioration of the nerve tissues. He also said that the leprosy bacilli are to be found in the spleen. Cathcart's repeated questioning failed to wring from him any guess as to how the bacilli got into the body.

The case will probably drag on all day today and possibly well into tomorrow. County Attorney Cathcart took up the cross-examination of Dr. Atcherley this morning.

Cathcart—Doctor, when did you take to using morphine, before you came to the islands or afterward?

Atcherley—I did not begin taking morphine until I came here.

Question—It was in 1896, you think, that you went under treatment to Dr. Wayson?

Answer—I believe so.

Question—You went under Dr. Wayson's treatment because it was said that you were becoming addicted to the use of morphine?

Answer—That is about it.

Question—And were you broken of the habit of taking morphine?

Answer—There is no question of a habit; such a thing as a habit did not exist.

Dr. Atcherley here interrupted Cathcart and complained at his harping on the morphine treatment, saying he was endeavoring to put a wrong construction on it.

Cathcart—Did you return to your treatment after you stopped treatment with Dr. Wayson?

Answer—I did.

Question—You went to Dr. Wayson in 1896 and again when?

Answer—in 1901.

Question—With those two exceptions you treated yourself?

Answer—I did.

In response to a question from Cathcart regarding his treatment, he went into a long description of the method which he used in treating himself, much of his testimony being very technical in places. The effect of different narcotics on the system was gone into.

Question—Then in 1901 you stopped the use of morphine entirely and substituted opium?

Answer—I did.

Question—Has this treatment of yours which has extended over all this time affected your health?

Answer—My health has improved.

Question—Have you ever used liquor to excess?

Answer—I may have, at times.

Question—Do you remember when you met me?

Answer—I do; it was in Kona. I remember, because you were a little under the "influence" yourself.

Question—Did anyone tell you to say that?

Our Cotton Best of All

Cheering Report Of U.S. Experts Received

Director Wilcox of the Federal Agricultural Experiment Station has received a most gratifying report from Washington on the samples of Sea Island cotton grown in these islands. The experts of the Department of Agriculture state that the Hawaiian samples are the best for commercial purposes they have received this year.

This report means a great deal for the prospects of cotton in the islands, as the experts employed by the department are the best to be found in the country. They know the commercial value of cottons and are in close touch with all phases of market demands. Their letter received by Dr. Wilcox last week says that among all the samples they have received this year from Florida, Georgia and all through the South where the Sea Island cotton is a specialty Hawaii ranks the highest.

"There is every reason why we should be gratified," said Dr. Wilcox, "because we had to develop our own seed. These fellows are so jealous of their hold on the market that they will not send out their best seeds even for experimentation. We have had to take what they will give us. Consequently the showing from the seed we were able to obtain is really better than appears from the statement of the experts."

"Cotton can be grown in these islands anywhere below the thousand-foot level and, it furnishes a crop on which the grower can realize coin immediately. It can be grown by the small men or on the big plantation so that it fits all conditions. We shall of course continue with our experiments. The Sea Island cotton commands the highest price of any in the market."

HILONIAN TO ARRIVE THURSDAY AFTERNOON

A wireless telegram from Captain Johnson of the steamer Hilonian was received this morning by the local agents. At 8 o'clock last evening Capt. Johnson reports that the Hilonian was 887 miles from this port and will arrive here late Thursday evening. He has experienced very heavy southwest and southeast gales since leaving San Francisco and heavy head seas. All well on board.

MAKIKI TENEMENT CASE IS ARGUED

Famous Test Case Now Before Supreme Court

The famous case of the Territory vs. Muranaka, a Japanese, which involves the test of the validity of the ordinance providing against the erection of tenements and lodging-houses within five hundred feet of a school, passed by the Board of Supervisors with the aim of preventing the influx of Japanese camps in the Makiki district, was argued before the Supreme Court this forenoon. Attorney E. C. Peters represented the defendant, while Deputy City and County Attorney Milverton conducted the case of the prosecution.

The argument was in the main features the same as that which was presented in the Police Court, the appeal being taken from the ruling of Judge Andrade, who overruled the defendant's demurrer, explaining that he did so in order that the question might be decided by the Supreme Court, at the same time intimating that he believed that the defendant's points were well taken.

Peters made the point that the mere erection of a building could not constitute a nuisance, and the flat of the Board of Supervisors could not make it so. Among his other contentions was that the action of the Government in this case amounted to a deprivation of property rights without due process of law. Furthermore, the ordinance dealt merely with the erection and not with the maintenance of tenements and lodging-houses within the taboed area. How could erection be a nuisance when maintenance was not?

Milverton in his argument laid strong emphasis on the fact that the buildings in question had been erected on a place other than that specified in the permit, the permit specifying that it could be built on the corner of Kinau and Pihikoi streets, but there was already a building on the corner and the new structure was being erected on another place on this lot.

Civics For Suspension

Friday Is Day Set For Striking At Flag

Friday is the date set for the meeting to be called under the auspices of the Civic Federation to pass resolutions approving the suspension of the coastwise shipping laws in their application to passengers sailing to and from our ports to the mainland.

The place has not been determined. "We shall endeavor to have a general meeting and pass some resolutions that will take a different view from the Chamber of Commerce and Merchants' Association," said W. R. Castle this noon. "I think we should get a large meeting and have a general discussion. Oh, certainly the meeting is open to everybody. This is a public meeting and not a meeting of Civic Federation members only."

NEW PLANS FOR FLORAL PARADE

T. H. Petrie, A. Gantley and Secretary Wood held a meeting this morning to discuss arrangements for the Floral Parade, and if the plans which they have in mind meet with success, the parade will far surpass anything of the kind ever seen here in the past. Among the suggestions is that of having the military, especially the cavalry command at Lohela, take a part in the parade, and the sight of the dashing troopers will add much to the color and vividness of the assembly.

It has also been proposed to interest the numerous Hawaiian societies which have been organized during the past couple of years, and they will be asked to reproduce on floats some of the unique tableaux which they have given elsewhere. Finally, arrangements are being made to have each island represented by a "Princess" with a retinue, a feature which has always been exceedingly successful in the past.

The Honolulu Lodge of Elks have rounded up between six and a dozen victims for a big initiatory session next Friday night. It will be the first initiations of the year, and the most important held by the lodge in many months. Elaborate preparations are being made to properly turn the various good citizens in hand into good Elks, and the indications are that the job will not lack in thoroughness.

The life interest of John D. Holt, Sr. in the Makaha lands in Waianae district, has been bought at auction for $5000 by J. M. Dowsett. Dowsett first made a bid of $2000 but was run up in $100 jumps by A. L. C. Atkinson. There is an area of about 4000 acres in the tract, but the beneficiary is an old man and there is no telling how long the interest may endure.

The Federal Grand Jury this afternoon went into session. Among the witnesses who have, it is understood, been summoned to appear before it are Harada, Saito, Matsuda and others connected with the Japanese drama, and Editor Soga of the Nippu Jiji. Fred Makino may also be called.

ALMY IS SUSTAINED IN THE WEST CASE

Shipping Commissioner Almy was sustained in every point when the case of the schooner A. J. Weston came up before Judge Dole this morning. The stand taken by the Commissioner was upheld, and Attorney George A. Davis was allowed but $20 attorney's fees for his trouble. The court also ordered Commissioner Almy to pay out $23.30 as stenographer's fees, or a total of $43.30 in all. The money comes out of the wages awaiting the plaintiffs in the suit.

The case has been hanging fire in the courts for nearly a year. Five men of the crew of the A. J. Weston, union men, declined to work on a Sunday morning and were discharged by the captain. They refused to accept their money, demanding fares to San Francisco, wages during the voyage, and several hundred dollars damages for alleged wounded feelings. They retained Davis to represent them and the schooner was libeled.

The agents put up bonds to allow the ship to depart and the matter was taken into the court. Before leaving, the captain of the Weston deposited $220 over to them the remainder.

CHIYO IS SMASHING RECORD FROM HERE TO SAN FRANCISCO

At 9 o'clock last night the new T. K. K. liner, Chiyo Maru, was 650 miles out from here, according to a wireless message received at Kahuku Point. As the ship did not leave here until 9 o'clock Sunday morning, the message indicates that she has made 650 miles in thirty-six hours, or an average of eighteen miles per hour. In spite of the statement of Captain Greene of the new liner, to the effect that he would not go after a new record, it is evident, judging from the speed which the ship is making, that the Tenyo's record will be lowered after all. If the new vessel proves able to keep up the pace, the Tenyo only averaged a little over sixteen miles on her record-breaking voyage. With Almy, representing the wages due the five men. In accordance with the court's order, the costs levied will be paid out of this money and Almy will then hunt up the sailors and turn over to them the remainder.
